Hi Aunt Jill,
I have a question about music. The other day, I was listening to the radio at home, and I heard a cool song. I remembered some of the words, and when I checked the Internet, I found the song! It is called "Snow" by White Fox. It is a really old song. I asked my friends and my teacher at piano school, but no one knew the song. I know you like music, so I thought maybe you would know it. I want to listen to more songs by the band. Can you show them to me?
Love,

大問3C 長文

本文を読み、次ページのQ26-Q30に答えなさい。

Matthew Henson

Matthew Henson was born in 1866 in a town near a river. His parents died when he was young, and he lived with his uncle. Then, he worked on a ship. On that ship, he learned how to read maps and use tools. He traveled around the world and then lived in Washington, D.C.

When Henson grew older, he met an explorer named Robert Peary. Peary was planning difficult trips to new places, and he needed people with skills to help him. Henson was perfect for this job. He could speak several foreign languages, fix tools, and understand directions. Peary and Henson became partners on many journeys. Together, they traveled to very cold parts of the world.

Peary and Henson had a dream. They wanted to go to the North Pole, the most northern part of the world, before anyone else. From 1891, they tried many times to go. However, the journeys were very dangerous. Sometimes, large storms and thick ice stopped their ship, so it could not move. Finally, in April 1909, the dream that Henson and Peary had came true, and they reached the North Pole. Henson was the first African American to reach this point.

In the early 1900s, many people did not know that Henson went to the North Pole. After the 1930s, many people learned about his trip, and in the 1940s, he was given a medal. After Henson died in New York in 1955, many people studied him. Now he is very famous.
