The School Performance

Gerald enjoys playing the trumpet. He practices every day after school. His father plays the guitar in a band with a violin player and a pianist. The band plays at a nice restaurant every week. Gerald wants to become a musician like his father.

In May, Gerald saw a poster about a music performance for a school festival. The festival was in July. Gerald's friend, Jessica, said, "You should play your trumpet at the festival!" Gerald decided to perform. In June, he practiced very hard.

At the festival, Gerald played one song. Many students and his parents were watching him. He was nervous, and he played the song too quickly. He thought, "I didn't play well."

However, the audience enjoyed Gerald's performance. Jessica said, "Great job!" His father said, "You played so well!" Gerald was surprised. He became happy about his performance. After the performance, he went to a pizza restaurant with Jessica and his parents to celebrate.
