大問4A About joining my band

メールを読み、次ページのQ23-Q25に答えなさい。

From: Andrea Patterson <andrea123@ground-mail.com>
To: Travis Longman <t.j.longman-0428@skyhigh-message.com>
Date: February 20
Subject: About joining my band

Dear Travis,

This is Andrea Patterson. Thanks for your message. It is great to hear that you are interested in joining our band as a guitarist. As you said in your email, we were looking for a new member. However, we just found someone last week. So, unfortunately, we will not be able to include you in our band. I am sorry to say that because I know how well you can play the guitar.

However, I do have some good news for you. I know another band whose members are still looking for a good guitarist. They are also students at our college. While they do not cover famous songs, they perform original music. The band started last year, but last week, the guitarist had to quit the band because he needed to focus on his studies. They usually practice on weekends in the music room on campus.

If you are interested, you can give me your phone number, and I will pass it to them. You could also exchange emails if you prefer, but I think it might be easier to talk with them directly on the phone. They can tell you more about the band. Then, you can go watch one of their practices to see if you like their music. Let me know what you think.

Thank you,
Andrea Patterson

Pig Beach

Big Major Cay in the country of the Bahamas is a small island with a beautiful beach known as Pig Beach. On this island, visitors can see and sometimes play with pigs swimming near the beach. In recent years, these pigs have gained popularity worldwide because of social media. This has led many tourists to visit the island to see this unique sight. As a result, this has had some negative impact on these animals.

These pigs are not native to the island, and nobody knows exactly how they arrived there. One story says that old sailors left their pigs on the island. Another story suggests that the pigs swam to the island after escaping from a broken ship. Some people believe the pigs were brought there by farmers from a nearby island. In any case, after these pigs learned that humans, especially tourists today, would feed them, they made the place their home.

Today, tourists who come to see the pigs sometimes cause problems. They often give the pigs various kinds of food, but much of it is not good for their health. This could make the pigs sick. Some reports said that pigs ate harmful items, such as plastic. In the past, some of the pigs died after people fed them on the beach, as they had also eaten too much sand with the food.

To protect the pigs, several organizations and the local government are taking action. For example, they have started campaigns to educate tourists on how to behave properly around the swimming pigs. They are also cleaning up the beach and making stricter rules on feeding the pigs. They aim to improve the situation for both the pigs and the environment through more eco-friendly tourism. These events have also made people reconsider how humans should interact with wild animals.
